Caine then read to the president, who remsined standing during the interview, the statement of grievance and the protest adopted by the Mormon conference at Logan, Utah, on April 6th, the substance of which was telegraphed at that time. The president listened courteously and attentively to the address, and, upon its conclusion said:

"Well, gentlemen, so far, of course, as the Edmunds slaw was concerned, I had nothing to do with that. Of course it is my duty to see that it is enforced, as well as all other laws. You are emittled to fair consideration and to have the law impartially administered as you ask, and so far as any appointments which I shall make are concerned, I will endeavor to give you the character of men who will see that the law is impartially administered. I hope soon to be able to get at these matters, but it will require a little time."

The president's face broke into a smile as he concluded:

Wilkesbarre, Pa., May 13.—The situation at Plymouth continues to improve. There have been some new cases reported since yesterday, but they are of a very mild type. The most distressing feature now existing is that very few of those who have been stricken by the disease can be said to have fully recovered, and many of them may yet die. Drs. Bauner and Waterman, of Jefferson medical college, Philadelphia, are now at the hospital, and are doing good work. Since the last report there have been four deaths. eral Grant's Pain.

New York, May 13.—Between 10 and 11 o'alcak last night a hypodermic injection, containing five drops of morphine, was administered to General Grant. This quantity of the opiate usually neutralizes the constant pain in the threat, so that the patient is able to sleep. This was not the result last night. The general during the day, had talked too much with visitors. The air during his noonday ride was chilly. His throat had swollen considerably, and the pain was so increased that the usual opiate did not produce the usual result. The general found no sleep until 3 o'clock this morning. At that hour he slept and continued to do so with breaks of wakefulness until between 8 and 9 o'clock this morning. At 9 o'clock he arose and was dressed. The increased swelling of the throat is very voticeable, and accordinate Colonel. General Middleton Scatters the Indians all Around.

Winnipeo, May 13.—A dispatch from Batouche, dated May 12, via Clark's crossing, May 12, savs: Batouche has fallen. The rebels have fled, being driven from their rifle pits and ambush at the point of the bayonet. The charge was gallantly made by the grenadiers. Riel sent a messenger to General Middleton early in the day, saying: "It you persist in firing upon the houses containing our women and children, we will massacre the prisoners in our hands." The general, in reply, told him to gather his women and children into one house, and it would not be fired upon. Later Riel sent an answer thanking Middleton for the humane promise to save the women and children, but promise to save the women and children, but afterwards, as the general attack was just being made, he sent another messenger saying he did not like war, but unless the troops retired, his original intention of masacreing the prisoners would be adhered to. It was too late, however, as the charge had been commenced, and in a few minutes the rebels were

menced, and in a few minutes the rebels were scattered and the prisoners rescued. The following is a list of the casualties to-day:
Killed—Captain John French, scout; Lieutenant Finch, Royal Grenadiers; Captain Brown, Boulton's troops; W. H. Keppen, surveyors corps, and two privates of the ninetieth regiment.
Wounded—Captain Gillis, and three men of the Ninetieth; Lieutenant Hellewell, and three men of the Midland battery; Major Dawson, Lieutenant Laidley and five enlisted men of the Grenadiers.

Father Monlin was found in his house at Batouche wounded, believed by the rebels, but not seriously. The following are the names of the prisoners rescued from the rebels: Lush Peter and William Tompkins, McKinnen, Ashley, Ross and McConnell. RICHMOND'S TRAGEDY.

THE STORY OF LILIAN MADISON'S

The Signs of the Scuille, and the Finding of the Dear Body in the Reservoir-The Mysterious Double Tracks, Telling the Presence of a Man-The Coroner's Finding, Etc.

RICHMOND, Va., May 13 .- The jury in the Cluverius murder trial this morning was photographed on the capitol grounds, near the city hall. The sick juror had recovered and appeared perfectly well. When the court opened the prisoner was seen sitting on the left of his counsel, and near the reporters' desk. His brother sat next to him. After the court had signed the bill of exceptions made Monday to the jury panel, the taking of testimody was beguin.

first witness sworn. He began by defining his duties and describing the place and surroundings. He was in the habit of making a circuit of the works twice day, around the on the top of the bank of the reservoir. About 7 o'clock on the morning of March 14, in making his usual round, he found on the walk a woman's glove and a broken shee string. He looked into the water at that point and noticed what appeared to be a portion of a woman's dress and a leg partly exposed. He immediately called an employe and found that it was the body of a woman.

L. W. Rose, keeper of the reservoir where

Lillian Madison's body was found, was the

that it was the body of a woman.

THE SIGNS OF A STRUGGLE.

Looking further, he discovered on the walk a furrowed place in the ground made by the footsteps of the woman, and behind them the tracks of a man's feet, all indicating a struggle. The witness went directly to the office of the waterworks and reported to the superintendent, and also informed the coroner. The body was subsequently taken out of the water and carried off. In answer to a question of the common wealth's attortion of the commonwealth's attorney, Mr. Meredith, witness said that on the night of March 13th, the water in the reservoir was about fifty inches water in the reservoir was about fifty inches below the waste water line, having been drawn off for the purpose of repairs. The evidence of a struggle on the walk was about thirteen feet from where the body was found floating. Upon cross examination by the defense the witness stated that there seemed to have been quite a struggle at the point named. After the body had been taken out of the water a severe contusion was visible over the right eye. The inner walls of the reservoir were inclined towards the centre at an angle of about fortywards the centre at an angle of about fortyfive degrees, and the witness thought the per-son falling in might strike against the brick. The cross questioning of the witness by four of the counsel for the defense was prolonged and tedious, and developed nothing of special

DISMAL AND GLOOMY SURROUNDINGS. In reply to Mr. Aylette, of the counsel for the prosecution, Rose said the surroundings outside of the reservoir grounds, particularly on the eastern and southern sides, were dismal and peculiarly gloomy, especially at night, on the eastern being the city smallpox hospital building (not now in use), and on the southbuilding (not how in use), and on the southern side the place where smallpox victims were buried. The picket fence immediately surrounding the reservoir on the top of the embankment was three teet four inches high. Colonel Aylette asked the witness if he thought a woman in a delicate condition could have easily gotten over that fence, and if it was likely a lady without some escort would approach years. without some escort would approach a reservoir at night. The defense objected to such questions and the court ruled them not proper ones. Further questioning brought out no new facts.

Lucius Bass, a workman under Mr. Rose, corroberated that gentleman's testimony generally. No one was admitted to the grounds to see the body until the coroner came. The witness assisted in taking the body from the water and noticed the bruises over one eye, also one lip was swollen. He could not say how many tracks were visible where the evidence of the struggle was seen, nor what were the respective sizes of the shoes that made them. They were numerous and had apparently been made by a man and a woman. The water was about 18 inches deep where the body was lying in the mud.

W. Trainham, an employe at the reservoir.

W. Trainham, an employe at the reservoir, testified that he saw the body before the coroner came. It was in the water, and a portion of the dress and one of the feet was received. dress and one of the feet were visible. ground on the walkway on the top of the embankment was very much disturbed opposite to where the body was found. outside fence, where one or two planks were off, the tracks led along directly near the fence, then across the open space and up the reservoir embankment to where the ground in the walkway was disturbed.

Under cross examination witness said there never had been a path along where he saw the tracks. The soil was red clay with little or nothing growing on it. The tracks appeared as though they had not been made very long before he saw them. His attention was called to them by Hutchinson, a fellow workman. He went down to the hole in the fence and followed the tracks to the top of the embankfollowed the tracks to the top of the embank-ment, at the point where the signs of a souffle were found. The distance was over 50 yards. The witness had talked with his fellow workmen in the shop about the affair, but never called special attention to the tracks. He had not appeared before the coroner's jury in the case. The foot tracks up the embankment were distinguishable by the marks of red clay on the gravel.

William Hutchinson, an employe, testified William Hutchinson, an employe, testined that he went up on the reservoir bank before the body was taken out, and saw that the walk way was very much disturbed by the footprints, Subsequently he saw the tracks from the southeast corner of the enclosure, extending from the fence across the lower grounds, and up the embankment to the walkway on the top. He called Trainham's attenway on the top. He called Trainham's atten-tion to them. The tracks were close together, and were those of a male and female. He saw them before the body was taken out of the water, and they seemed to be fresh. There had been a slight snowfall the night before.

water, and they seemed to be fresh. There had been a slight snowfall the night before.

THE DEAD BODY EXAMINED.

Dr. William H. Taylor, coroner, was the next sworn. He said he was notified of the finding of the body, and saw it about 10 o'clock on the same morning. He did not examine it at once, but gave attention to the tracks of the scuffle pointed out to him. They covered a space the full width of the walkway and six to eight feet in length. There were numerous tracks, mostly small and about the same size. There were two tracks of broad heels, probably those of a man, which were near the picket fence surrounding the reservoir, and had apparently been made by a person in a position to look into the reservior. All the footpints were running into each other, and were quite confused. Subsequently the witness took a shoe off the body and tried it in the midst of the disturbed ground he saw a glove and a shoe string. After the body was taken out he proceeded to examine it. The body was covered with mud, the arms were drawn up and the mud was clutched in the hands. A blue jersey, worn by the deceased, was torn in the inner side of the left sleeve, and the black skirt had some small rents in it.

The articles were here shown to the witness,

The articles were here shown to the witness, who identified them, after which they were in under the tarm embra-shown to the jury. Nothing in the shape of jewelry was found on the body. He had the body taken to the city alms house, where it remained until next day without being identicated.

The day after the finding of the body he made an autopsy which he minutely described. He found a bruise over the right eye, and several scratches on the eye lid and forehead. On opening the skull he found no fracture, but on the left side of the top of the brain he discovered a slight effusion of blood or a red staining of the surface of the brain. In the stomach was a small quantity of partly digested food, but little or no signs of water. Evidences of of impending maternity were also present. He gave three causes which might have produced the blood in the brain, the most probable of which was that it might have been caused by a blow over the eye. He first thought it a case of suicide, but a subsequent disquosis of the case caused him to ascribe her death to drowning, preceded by partial insensibility, which possibly was produced by blows. The bruise on the lip was hardly caused by a blow, and could have been made by the pressure of the hand over the mouth. The deceased was four feet eleven inches in height, only nineteen inches higher than the picket fence around the reservoir and weighed about 120 pounds.

The cross examination elicited nothing additional. At 4 p. m. the court adjourned until Cincago, May 13.—George C. Odgers, the young husband who had his wife taken away from him on his wedding night by private defectives who entered his sleeping apartments, has filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus in the circuit court. He recites that on April 15 he was married to Bertha Shoop, nineteen years old, by the Rev. G. P. Marsh, a Methodist minister, and that on the next day he was arreated on a warrant issued by Justice Meach at the allegation of Sarsh Hackett Stevenson that he and his young wife were living together in scandalous relations. When the facts were known to the court, Mr. Odgers was discharged, but was induced to go with Mrs. Stevenson and a man named Harry Jenks, a detective, to Mooney & Boland's office, where they were to find the young wife's mother. The latter they did not find, but they were told that proceedings for larceny would be brought against them unless husband and wife agreed to live apart from each other for some time. Under strong pressure they sagred it to his although the patir them to the pour warred to this design of the patir them to the potential of the patir them the patir the pa husband and wife agreed to live apart from each other for some time. Under strong pressure they agreed to this although the petitioner says the charge was a wholly fictitious and false one. The wife was taken away by Sarsh Hackett Stevenson on that day, April 16, and young Odgers says that he has not seen her since and that she is still in the custody and control of Mrs. Stevenson. He adds that she now intends to remove Bertha entirely from Chicago and out of the jurisdiction of the court, intending to take her to Germany. Their consent to live apart, the husband now says, having been obtained under duress, he considers it invalid, and asks the court to force Mrs. Stevenson to liberate the wife and reinstate him in his natliberate the wife and reinstate him in his natural rights. In case the wife cannot be found he asks that the wife's present custodian be arrested and brought into court to answer questions. Judge Rogers issued a writ of habeas corpus to this effect.

A Riot Between the Mob and the Police for the Pos-session of Nelson Monument—The Latest News From Afghanistan and the Sondan— Other Old World Intelligence.

LONDON, May 13 -A riot occurred this afternoon between the mob and the police for the possession of Nelson monument, in Trafalgar square. About 10,000 men had assembled in the square to make a demonstration against the government's budget proposals to increase the duties on spirits and beer. The crowd was very unruly, a large portion of it consisting of an element on the search for sport. The police found themselves unable to maintain order, and the pressure on the speakers and the resolution readers compelled them to mount the pedestal of Nelson monument. When from this eminence, the speeches were resumed, they were rendered inaudible to the audience addressed by the uproar among the roysterers. The police intervened to secure silence for the orators, and then a great struggle ensued between the mob and the police for the possession of the monument. The row lasted nearly an hour, and the promoters of the meeting and the police were finally compelled to retire, leaving the crowd singing in triumph, "Rule Britania." Soon after the mob had compelled the speakers to leave, it surged down in front of the National club, which faces Trafalgar square. Every person noticed entering or leaving the club building was mobbed. The attitude of the crowd was so menacing that the club doors were closed, and a messenger was dis-patched to Scotland yard for additional police. At 9 o'clock the rioters were still in tull pos-session of Trafalgar square, and Northumber-land avenue was also occupied by a mob of many thousands. The police, by this time, had been largely reinforced and had charged a number of times upon the mob, and had made several arrests.

written a long and vigorous reply, which wing appear in the Times to-morrow. Lord Randolph says:

"I never desired, and do not desire now, to be a member of the upper house, but I confess that when I read Earl Granville's remarks to day, I felt a momentary wish to be a member of the house of lords for fust a quarter of an hour, in order to give Earl Granville a mild reply. The peers will do well, when reforming of constitution, which prohibits the quoting in debate of speeches made in either house in the previous debates of the same session, as the official reports of the speeches are unobtainable, whilst the newspaper reports are not always accurate. If Earl Granville wished to reply to my speech with regard to the received notions of ordinary parliamentary fair play, he might have instructed Lord Edward Fitzmaurice to take advantage of Monday's debate in the house of commons to correct what he assumes to be my errors. Lord Edmund Fitzmaurice is certainly not inferior to Earl Granville in intelligence, and might have been trusted to that extent, or Earl Granville might have given me notice when I could have asked some friend in the house of lords to reply in my behalf. These two courses, however, in Earl Granville's opinion, were open to serious objection; firstly, they were air and honorable; secondly, he would have been precluded from enjoying complete impunity in making foolish and ignorant charges against my self. Pray, allow me through your columns to deal with this unhappy man."

Lord Randolph then goes on to refute in detail Earl Granville's charges of inaccuracy.

He says the Afghans sent a had thrashed the English. The Afghans, General Komaroff again insists, fired the first shots, and so were responsible for bringing on the engagement. General Komaroff says he learned from the prisoners who were captured in the battle, that the Afghan leaders had ordered the Sariks to furnish a contingent of one thousand men to the Afghan army. The time which had been allowed the Sariks to detarmine whether they would comply with this order expired on the very day the battle occurred, and the answer from them was expected by the Afghans on that day. Grand Display.

New Orleans, May 13.—To-day was observed at the exposition as "fowa day." At 10 o'clock all the citizens of Iows present here met and went to the exposition park by steam boats. They were accompanied by the Iowa band of 110 pieces, which rendered several pieces of music on the way. Major Burke being one of the speakers announced, made an address on the subject of education. A souvenier of Iowa day was a map showing the location of the schoolhouses in that state.

Major Burke sent in his resignation as director general of the board of management last night, and it was accepted. This circumstance was uppermost in the minds of all present, so that when Major Burke spoke of the affairs of the exposition and the proposed reopening, he was received with great enthusiasm.

The Drill of the Military Companies in New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, May 13.—The second day of the exposition inter-state drill opened with the inpection of the rural companies. The St. Mary Volunteers was the only entry, the Iberia Guards having withdrawn. Then followed the inspection of first class companies in the following order: Chickssaw Guards, Houston Light Guards, Janes-ville Guards, Company F, Louisville legion, Mobile wille Guards, Company F, Louisville legion, Mobile Rifles and Savannah Cadets. The drilling was begun at 1:30 p.m. by the St. Mary Volunteers, They made a fair showing.

The first of the crack companies to appear on the drill ground was the Chickasaw Guards, who were greeted warmly by the large crowd present. Their drill was almost perfect, with the exception of some individual errors. In stacking arms one stack fell, and during the execution of one of the double-quick orders, two men slipped and fell, but resumed their places immediately. Their drill lasted fifty-five minutes, and they left the field amid great applause,

They were followed by the Houston Light Guards, who were given a much more hearty reception. Their drill was very finely executed, and several portions of the programme were performed with more finish and activity than was done by the former company. The only noticeable errors were the losing of distance and individual tardiness on the part of several members in the manual, and the slipping and falling of one man, who immediately took his position again. They went through the evolutions of the drill programme in fifty minutes, and being drawn up in line before the grand stand, left the ground amid tremendons applause.

The Janesville Guards, who were to have drilled

The Janesville Gnards, who were to have drilled next, withdrew from the contest.

The programme of the day ended with a drill by the Busch Zonaves, who had no competitors, the Richardson Zonaves, of Indianapolis, who were to have contested with them, having left for home last night, owing to a death in the captain's family.

The weather to day could not have been better, it being cloudy with a good breeze. A large crowd of visitors were present, there being nearly ten thousand persons on the grounds. FOR BISHOP OF GEORGIA.

The Rev. Dr. John Foley Likely to be Appointed, and Not Allowed to Decline. BALTIMORE, May 13.—One of the probable results of the conclave of the Catholic hierarchy last week is the elevation of Rev. In conversation to-day with a clergyman who enjoys to a great degree the confidence of Archbishop Gibbons it was intimated to a reporter that among other things mooted at the coun-Archbishop dibbons it was intimated to a reporter that among other things mooted at the council last week was the question of a successor to Bishop Gross, of Savannah, Georgia, who goes to Oregon as an archbishop of that see. Several names were mentioned in connection with the bishopric of Georgia, and it is understood that finally it was decided to send the name of Dr. Foley to Rome, with the recommendation that the pope appoint him to the vacant diocese.

Dr. Foley has already declined prometion to the college of bishops twice, preferring to remain with St. Martin's congregation, by whom he is greatly beloved, but if he is appointed by the pope to the Georgia vacancy, he must accept, it being a rule of the church that advancement in position can be declined but twice.

The board determined to extend the track to Star park, and the material has been ordered. A negro went to Mr. James Adams, on Front street, and pretended that he wanted to try his horse with a view to buying him. The animal was hitched to a vehicle and Mr. Adams gave the negro the privilege of driving him over the city, but sent his clerk with him. The negro, through some pretense, got the clerk out of the buggy, and the next time Mr. Adams heard of him he was making his way in the direction of Seale, Ala. Mr Adams boarded the train and cantured the negro at Fort Mitchell, twelve miles from the city. He recovered his horse, but allowed the negro to go unpunished.

CLINTON, Ga., May 13.—[Special.]—Henry Atlen, of this county, was employed upon the plantation of R. J. Smith. On the morning of March 30, one year ago, Mr. Smith was awakened to find his house in flames. One of the first to appear on the ground was Henry Allen, who, however, refused to lend a helping hand. It was subsequently developed that Allen was the incendiary and applied the torch because Mrs. Smith had refu let his wife cook on her stove. On the night of the fire Henry went to church with a companion named Glawson. After distinguishing themselves in prayer they adjourned to a dance, where Allen picked the banjo for the dancers. When twelve o'clock came Allen and Glawson started off. Allen requested Glaw son to stand still and see how he got even with folks. Returning in a few minutes he remarked "They'll not cook with that stove any more." Then the flames began to shoot up from the build ing and Glawson saw that he was in a trap. After holding his peace for several days he revealed the whole story, which resulted in the arrest and conviction of Allen for arson. The petitioner is a young man of Taylorsville, and the young wife liges just across the county line in Folk. Out of a feeling of kindness we forbear to give the names of the parties implicated, though the whole affair is now public property since it has become a part of the records of the county. The leading facts as contained in the petition are about as follows: On Monday evening of last week two strong men came to the house of the young man who brings this suit and charged him with having seduced the sister of one of the men, and told him that he had to go at once and marry the injured girl. He denied the charge of seduc hon and refused to go. They told him that he citler had to go or die. One of the men then drew a pistol and told him that he had come prepared to make him go. The petition then continues, "and petitioner being unarmed and defenseless was compelled to go, and they took petitioner to the house of the said girl on said 4th of May and guarded him there all night, and sent for license, and on the 5th of May compelled him to marry her against his will and consent, or lose his life, she saying at the time that petitioner was not the cause of the trouble. After said marriage the said girl was brought by her brother to the house of petitioner's mother and therefelt And petitioner as the said marriage was obtained by force, menaces and duress and therefore petitioner prays that the same may be annulled and declared void and divorce be granted." We give these facts as we find them in the petition. The other side will doubtless have something to say by way of justification and some peculiar developments may be expected.

The names of the parties to the above affair are: William V. Jones, of Taylorsville, groom; Miss American yesterday printed the following: The names of the parties to the above affair are

PROBIBITION IN TROUP.

The County Carried by an Overwhelming Majority.

Lagrange, Ga., May 13.—[Special.]—The intelligence and virtue of Troup county to day asserted itself in unmistakable terms at the polls, by giving an overwhelming majority for prohibition Not a single white vote was polled by a citizen of LaGrange for whisky. The following is the vote as far as heard from. The county precincts vet to hear from cannot change the result: LaGrange, for prohibition, 436, against 16; West Point, for prohibition, 132, against 45; Hogansville, for prohibition, 125, against 85. The Marietta and North Georgia. MARIETTA, Ga, May 13.—[Special.]—The Marietta and North Georgia railroad put on a new train Monday. It leaves here at 2:35 p. m., and arrives at 9:46 a. m. It is an accommodation train, carrying both passengers and freight. Mr. J. B. Glover, superintendent Marietta and North Georgia railroad, left Monday for the north to hurry up the forwarding of an engine and some cars lately purchased for this railroad.

The Weather in Fort Gaines. FORT GAINES, Ga., May 13 .- [Special.]-The veather here is unusually cold for the season and the wave is possibly somewhat local, as the signal service observer at this point was gravely informed a few days since by his superior officer at Savannah that he was reading his minimum thermometer "from the wrong end" and must correct it, as his reports were "about ten degrees too low." But the weather clerk, in defiance of this protest from the department sent us the next morning a still further decline of eight degrees and fires and coats are in demand. The cotton planters are all in sympathy with the signal service department in its laudable efforts to restore the weather to its normal condition.

Why Marietta Did Not Go. MARIETTA, Ga., May 13.—[Special.]—The Marietta fire company, after deciding to go to Augusta to enter the contest there, backed out at the last min ute because a sufficient number of runners could

Deaths in Georgia

FORT GAINES, Ga., May 13. - [Special.] - Mr. John B. Torbert, a highly esteemed citizen living near Wesley chapel, died last Sunday morning. He had long been a sufferer and the silent messenger was not unexpected. He was buried Monday with Masonic honors, the Fort Gaines and Bluffton odges both participating in the ceremonies.

Thigh and Ribs Broken,

ALBANY, May 13 .- [Special.] -A man named Oliver, a hard working farmer near Tifton, had his thigh and two ribs broken by an accident at H. H. Tift's mill on Thursday last. He was attended by Dr. Kendrick, of Ty Ty, and Dr. M. Millam, of Albany, who were summoned by Mr. Also a negro man had his shoulder partially dis-located by a barrel of turpentine rolling against him.

The Condition of Roberts.

AUGUSTA, Ga., May 13.—[Special.]—Wm. S. Roberts, president of the late Bank of Augusta, who attempted suicide yesterday by cutting his throat, is resting easy and improving. No serious danger exists unless from secondary hemorrhage.

Sentenced to Death. CLINTON, Ga., May 13 .- [Special.]-At the term of Jones court just closed Henry Etheridge, colored, was sentenced to death on the 19th of June next for the murder of Tom Clemmons, his rival in love.

If Martin Luther Had only been able to get a bottle of Brown's Iron Bitters in his spells of nervousness and great physical debility, it would have been a mighty blessing to him and a wonderful help to his work. But he lived 400 years before Brown's Iron Bitters had been heard of. Literary workers and busy clergymen know the advantages of this great iron tonic. The Rev. D. F. Manly, Tampico, Tenn., says, "Nervousness, prostration and indigestion seriously affected my health, Brown's Iron Bitters relieved me at once."

Mr. John Crouch died at his residence in Meriwether at the ripe age of eighty-six. He was twice married, his last marriage occurring fifty-eight years ago. Through all these fifty eight years he carefully preserved his last wedding suit, and in this suit he was buried. The gold mines around Dahlonega are almost all at work. The Barlow mine has a good water supply. The Chicago and Georgia is being overbauled, and the mill will be started up in a short time. The Columbia is running ten stamps. Th Gordon is running a twenty stamp force on half time. The Balston mill is running night and day In the Bast mine work was resumed a few days ago and the mill started Monday morning last. Mr. Perien has been overhauling and making some needed improvements at this mine. They have a good supply of wood and a steady sum mer's run is suticipated, there being plenty of ore and of an average grade. In the Findley, work was resumed Monday last. This property has been leased by Mr. King, and he hopes to start the mill at an early day. Mr. Marion Moose is to take charge of the mine. In the Lock hart work continues and the mine is tooking well. Mr. John Reid, the superintendent, is off for a few days, having gone to Gainesville. Work continues at the Garnett mine, but as to the yields we are not informed. The Ivy mill is now kept on full time and the plates are show-irg up well. The cut is in good shape and shows up plenty of pay material, in fact they are taking out better ore than ever. Some fine specimens are shown by Mr. S. W. Gaydon. He had been taking out some of the best ore he ever saw. This mine, generally speaking, is in better shape than any in the county. Mr. Perien deserves much credit for his untiring and energetic management of the Ivev and Bast mines. He is a most attentive as well as practical superintendent The Signal says:

Henry G. Hanks, state minerologist of California, who is in charge of the California mineral exhibit at New Orleans, paid our mining region a visit last week. He was at the Union and Fannin county mines and visited the principal mines and mills at this place. He expressed himself as highly pleased with this as a mining country and said that gold mining here is yet in its infancy and that the outlook for the future is good. Mr. Hanks is a practical miner himself and talks intelligently and plainly to us on this great question of mining for gold. Mr. Hanks visit here will do us much good in dispelling the erroneous ideas that hon-residents have of our gold fields in the south. The Signal says:

Wrightsville, Ga., Recorder: On last Monday wrightsville, tak., kecorder: On last Monday nights party of disguised men broke into a house on Dr. Fianders' place, occupied by a negro wo man, whom he had employed as laundress, and dregged her from her bed and carried her to the dragged her from her bed and carried her to the branch about two hundred yards away and beat her most unmercifully, and then fired twenty or twenty-five pistol shors in rapid succession, greatly annoying those living in that vicinity. The law abiding citizens of the town and country feel greatly outraged at such lawless conduct and are determined to have the matter fully investigated and the guilty parties brought to trial.

The ordinary of Stewart ordered an election to be held on the first Wednesday in June to fill the scancy in the coroner's office caused by the death of Mr. J. H. Thornton. Mr. W. C. Gilbreath and son, of Catoosa, split one day last week, 225 rails in two hours. For a while they split a rail a minute. The Catoosa Courier learns of the mysterious disappearance of Joe Lane Dedmon. He left his wife a week ago last Sunday, to be back the next morning, he failed to come in, and as yet nothing can be learned of his where abouts. He left in his usual friendly manner. He has a crop started, most of which is planted, and the cause of his strange disappearance is causing his family and friends to suspect that something sad has befallen him.

A negro man named Toombs Thomas was arrest. ed near Florence last week and brought before Magistrate Land, of Lumpkin, on a charge of assault with intent to murder. He was committed to jail to await the action of the next superior ourt. The negro is also charged with the crime of rape.

There is a colored man in Green county by the name of Frank Barnett who has accumulated at least $6 000 since the war. He has a splendid plantation, well stocked, and now has on hand considerable cash awaiting a good investment. Thomson Richardson, the Wilkes county negro who murdered Jim Johnson, has been adjudged guilty, and is sentenced to the penitentiary for life. Sixteen true bills have been returned by the grand jury of Wilkes.

Savannah News: General Q. A. Gilmore, of New York, and General John Newton, of Washinton, whose arrival in savannah on Saturday was announced, have made an inspection of the improvements in progress in the river. The gentlemen are on a trip of inspection, including Norfolk, Charles ten, Savannah, Pensacola, Mobile, New Orleans and Galveston. They have already visited Norfolk and Charleston and will proceed from here to Pensacola. General Newton stated that the work done in the Savannah river is perfectly satisfactory, and when all of the work is completed the approach to the city will be greatly improved. He stated that enough money remains of the appropriation to carry the work forward until fall. The fallure of the last coagress to pass the river and harbor appropriation to hill will of course necessitate the abandonment of the work for awhile when the appropriation under which they are now working gives out. He ridiculed the idea that there is any danger of the partially completed work being impaired by the tides while the work is stopped. He states that the work is well under way, a large portion of it having been completed. The estimate for the completion of improvements now projected will be presented to the department at Washington on June 30, and an extra amount will be asked to 30, and an extra amount will be asked to take some improvements at points near the

Bear the Same Testimony as to the Virtue of

Swift's Specific

The Value of this Industry to Atlanta Cannot be Estimated in Money.

SOME OPINIONS EXPRESSED.

THE EDITORS SPEAK OUT. While hundreds of those afflicted with Scrofula, Cancer, Rheumatism and other blood diseases are bearing testimony to the wonderful effect of Swift's Specific, the members of the "Fourth Estate" are impressed with these remarkable developments, and speak right out in meeting. The New Orleans Picayune, among the ablest and the oldest papers in the crescent city, has the following in its issue of April 25, 1885, on the first page: CANCER CURED .- Are there any of our reader suffering from this horrible disease? Should any e so unfortunate as to be troubled with it, we should suggest a perusal in another column the card of "Swift Specific Co.," Atlanta, Ga., you will then come to the conclusion that "Swift's Specific" is a wonderful remedy. Remember that the company is a thoroughly reliable one, and has the confidence and esteem of the people of Atlanta Ga. It can be had from every druggist in the country, which shows that the Specific is good. Treatise on blood and skin diseases mailed The Gainesville, Ga., Southron in its issue of May 5th, says: We very seldom say more than we are paid for about patent medicines, but we know of personal knowledge a dozen persons in this community who are being cured of stubborn maladies by S. S. S., and therefore know it has much more than ordinary merit. The Methodist, published in Iowa City, Iowa, of February 28, 1855, says editorially:

The remedies of the Swift Specific Co. were highly commended by a reliable gentleman in our city who is afflicted with scrofula. He pronounced their blood medicine the best in the market, and he had tried all. The Hartford, Ky., Herald under date of April 29, has this to say as to the merits of Swift's Spe Some months since the Herald began advertising the medicines of the Swift Specific Company, Atlanta, Ga. .The advertisement attracted the attention of one of our oldest and most respected citi zens, H. D. Taylor, Esq. Before giving it a trial Mr. Taylor wrote to his old friend Dr. John M. Johnson, of Atlanta, who formerly lived in this county, making inquiry about the medicine and the proprietors of it. Dr. Johnson responded as ollows: "You wish information in regard to the celebrated medicine manufactured here known as the S. S. S. I have watched with much care the effect of this medicine upon those who have used it, and bear willing testimony to its good results in a great majority of justances. The firm engaged in its manufacture are gentlemen and capitalists, and are as far above falsehood or deception as any men in your community, You may confide implicitly in any of their statements touching its utility. I am sorry for your affliction, but I believe this medicine will cure you if persevered

in. Very truly,

A GROWING INDUSTRY. Sometime ago a writer in the Sunny South called attention to the existence of several factories for the manufacture of patent medicines, located in Atlanta, and was somewhat puzzled to know from whence come all the material used. Last week the Savannah Morning News spoke of the wonderful success of Swift's Specific and called it a "produc tive mine," and in the last number of the Southern World, the editor, after having visited our Labratory, on the corner of Hunter and Butler streets, indulges in the following wise and sugges tive declarations: It is a matter of much surprise to us, and will be to all who may read what we have to say on the subject, that so little notice has been taken of one of the greatest and most prosperous industries in the south-that of the manufacture of patent medicines. then manufacturing patent medicines, removed to the north-one to New York and the other to Philadelphia-in order to secure supeesagdyri anto for the sale of their products. But since then, as i by magic, within the borders of our state several similar establishments have sprung into a healthy and prosperous career, and it is doubtful if New York, Philadelphia, or Chicago could offer them any better facilities for carrying on their operations And what does all this mean to the people of the south? It means more money kept at home and new demands for the natural products of the soil. Heretofore, to a large extent, roots and herbs have been shipped north for manufacture into patent medicines, just as our cotton was sent there to be made into cloth and shipped back here to be sold to the very persons who raised the raw material. As we have grown wiser in regard to cotton, so have we come to see the full value of our roots and herbs for home manufacture.

There are in Atlanta, alone, not to speak of other Georgia cities, a half dozen large establishments which pay out thousands of dollars annually for roots, herbs, honey, etc., to be used in the manu facture of patent medicines and other preparations. Besides this, an immense amount of money is spent for labor in preparing and shipping these preparations. Idle hands are given employment; printing presses and box factories are kept busy, and, in many ways, hundreds of other industries are fostered and kept alive. In North Carolina, for years past, an immen trade has been carried on with the north by shipers of roots and herbs of a medicinal characte Georgia, however, has very wisely created a home demand for these things, and as this demand constantly increases-although it has already reached surprising dimensions-every branch of trade and industry seems to feel its reviving influences. To remove these medicine ent from our state, in their present enlarged propor tions and prosperous condition, would be to tak millions of dollars from our active and laborsupporting capital.

SPRING

Is to many the most beautiful season of the year, but to others it brings troubles in the shape o eruptions, blotches, ulcers, itchings, etc. We offer to all such the only purely vegetable, reliable and safe remedy to force out all this poison. It is nature's remedy, prepared from the roots of the forests, and noting in its composition comes from the apothecary or the chemists' shop. Do not take mercury and potash mixtures for these complaints, for they are as bad or worse than the disease Swift's Specific roots out the poison and eliminates it through the pores of the skin.

The Memphis Short Line. The last spike in the short line from Memphis to Helly Springs has been driven, and the read will at once be put into operation. It is forty-four miles in length, and believed to be or e of the most profitable railroad investments of that section. Dunavant, Kelly and Piper, who built it, after half a dozen futile effects by others to do so, expect to become the sole owners, and they took $300,000 in receiver's certificates for their work, and other certificates for a similar amount representing the work already done were placed in the United States court at Oxford by the receiver.

Is This Possible? Report comes that General Grant's improved Report comes that deneral Grant's improved condition is due to the fact that he is using a "simple vegetable preparation" forwarded by one of our consula from South America, and set thim by the Surgeon General! Is this set thin by the Surgeon General! Is this possible! By an "unauthorized" remedy? Shecking!

And yet, if this "simple vegetable prepara-tion" were owned and advertised by any one as a specific for this terrible disease, certainly the Surgeon General would not commend it; nor would bigeted physicians prescribe it! Nevertheless, it is a fact that many of the best proprietary medicines of the day, as the late Dr. J. G. Holland stated in Scribner's Monthly, were more successful than many physicians, and most of them, it should be remembered, were at first discovered or used in actual medical practice. When, however, any shrewd persons, knowing of their virtue and foreseeing their popularity, secured and at vertised them, then, in the opinion of the bigoted, all virtue went out of them!

Isn't this shaurd! We believe that a remedy, if properly made, is just as effective when put up, advertised and sold in bulk, as when doled out to patients at enormous expense by their physi-

If General Grant is getting better through a simple upauthorized vegetable preparation, where is the vaunted exclusive skill of the medical profession!

Appropos of the suspension of some very prominent members by the Medical and Chirugical faculty of Maryland, for indorsing advertised remedies, the Baltimore American (April 25) says that "when a patent medicine goes on year after year widening its circle of its believers, it is a pretty fair evidence that there is merit in it. The regular doctors may ignore it, and expel any of its members who use it, but when they do so their action looks use it, but when they do so their action looks more like envy against a successful remedy then a true desire to protect the public." The failure in the Garnield and Grantcases, the American thinks, and properly, has knocked professional pretensions higher than a kite. But this is not a singular instance of unprofessional power over "incurable diseases." That "simple vegetable preparation" now everywhere known as Warner's safe cure, was once an authorized remedy: was pronounced. once an authorized remedy; was pronounced a "God send" to the medical profession for the cure of kidney and liver disorders, malaria, general debility, spring feebleness, female irregularities, etc., by many leading physicians, but when the formula was fully perfected, and the medicine was put up in bulk and advertised so that every suffare might. and advertised so that every sufferer might know of it and treat himself, then the pro-fession turned upon it and let their patients die rather than to use it! This is certainly a strange proceeding, but it is on a level with all the rules and regula-tions of a code which has gone so far as to forbid a physician displaying beyond a certain size his name and profession upon his sign! But the world moves, and merit wins the

This is the era of conventions. From nov until the fourth of July all kinds of bodies will meet in pleasant places to note the events of the year. The Knights of Honor are now in session in St. Louis; the B'nai Brith has just adjourned in Salma; the Catholic Knights and the Tract society are at peace in New York city, while Atlanta entertains the Young Men's Christian association.

THE resignation of Major A. E. Burke as director general of the New Orleans exposition suggests that the great undertaking is drawing to a close. At the call of patriotism Major Burke turned his attention away from lucrative private business, and has given to the exposition that energy which made its success possible. New Orleans certainly can not soon repay the debt which it owes its distirguished citizen.

THE POE MYSTERY.

It seems that the recent unveiling of the Poe monument in New York has started afresh the useless controversy that has been carried on over his remains for many years. The programme apparently was not a satisfactory one, There were men who regarded themselves as experts whose names were not down for a speech, and who were not even given seats on the platform. These omis sions were in the nature of a terrible disaster. and there is a good deal of growling, and grumbling, and threatening.

On top of it all there is the old discussion as to Poe's habits and veracity. The difficulty in regard to this matter is that every young man who becomes interested in Poe's writings-and they appeal for the most part to the amateurish imaginations or feverish fancy of the young-comes in a fortnight's time to consider himself a Poe expert, and the probability is that he will either hasten o compose a new life of the poet, or contribute something to the newspapers

Those who take the trouble to investigate the facts find few facts to investigate, and these few facts are so highly colored, and so surrounded by the mythical legends the poet himself put in circulation, that it is difficult to pick them out. It is difficult to understand the secret of the fass that is made over Poe, unless it is to be traced to rivalry among his various biographers and editors. He is a much edited man, and each editor has his own theory as to Poe's individuality, as to his genius, as to his writings and as to his birthplace. One says he was a demon, another that he was an angel of light, another that he was the imp of the perverse, and still another that he was merely a writer whose corceit and egotism kept him in a continual state of restlessness and cynicism.

He was a wonderful man in one way and another, and the air of mystery that has surrounded, and still surrounds, his career is absolutely necessary to the just appreciation of his genius. Take that away and there is nothing left but the exquisite tricks in rhyme that give interest to "The Raven." He is claimed as a southern author, and he was certainly southern in attitude, if not in birth: but the south is more honored in the career of such a genius as Sidney Lanier than it would be in the career of a hundred Poes.

AMERICAN AUTHORSHIP.

The failure of the firm of James R. Osgood & Co., of Boston, the particulars of which have been fully set forth in our news col umns, recal's to mind the efforts which American an hors are now making to secure the action of congress in regard to internaticual copyright. Perhaps there is no reasonable connection between the failure of the Boston firm and the lack of international copyright. But it is well known that Osgood's lists were made up almost exclusively of the most popular American writers of the day, and it is also well known that he was most generous in his dealings with American authors. He had on his lists Howells, James, Cable, Craddock, Howe, and, in fact, nearly every American author of the new genera tion whose writings gave promise of popularity. The broad and fertile field of piracy he left to other publishers and devoted himself to building up the new American literature that has been developing since the war.

He was thus handicapped from the start Paying a generous royalty to American au thors, he published no cheap books, and the result is that he has failed-not through bad management, but because American authors who expect to be reasons bly paid for their brain work cannot compete with the ten and twenty cent publca ns that are stolen from English and other foreign authors. It is true the American suthors have formed themseives into a league for the purpose of securing international copyright, but how will they proceed?

It seems to be very simple. They will apply to congress, as they applied before, and probably that will be the end of it. For, though this is the land of inventions (and even the inventor of a patent churn or gate latch can secure his rights in foreign countries under the law), there has never been any machinery invented that will give your average corgressman any conception of the necessity of fostering the development of our native literature. There has been no machinery invented that will give him an in terest in literature. When the attempt was made in the last congress to pass the somewhat inconsiderate bill framed by Dorsheim er, there were not more than twenty-five congressmen that took an interest in the measure, and the most of these were from the south. The bill failed, as our readers know, and all bills of the kind will fail until northern and eastern congressmen are educated up to the point of appreciating the necessity of securing to native authors their property rights. These rights are acknowledged in every civilized country on the globe except the American republic.

THE Providence Telegram advances the theory that stupidity is of immense advantage to a man There was once something in it. The ancients would not have adopted "a fool for luck" as a proverb if their experience had not justified it. Everybody recollects the sagacious father in the novel who wanted his son to grow up a first class fool. He knew that society would conspire to give the young man a good office to get him off its hands. When a young man shows himself incapable of taking care of himself it is wonderful how many people look after him and push him along. This is an admirable feature in human nature, thus looking after the fools and al lowing the wise to take care of themselves. But our young men must beware how they accept this philosophy. Only Tuesday night Ed Dreyfous was in Atlanta. He came up on Monday to witness the ball games between Atlanta and Macon and remained until Tuesday night when he returned home. During his two days' visit in the city Ed mingled with his Iriends, laughing, talking and getting in his usual happy style. If anybody in the world has friends who are attached and kind, it is Ed Dreyfous. He is a universal favorite wherever known. He is always laughing, smiling and joking, and never gives offense to anyone. No one has ever seen a frown upon his face and no one has ever neard a cross word from him. Years ago he won the soubriquet of "Heppy Ed," and wherever he goes he is known as "Happy Ed," When in Atlanta last Tuesday he was in his usual good humor and no one had a thought that the telegraph wire would so quickly tell of a great misfortune to him.

Mr. Malone's telegram was repeated so rapidly that in less than an hour the shooting of Ed Dreyfous was being discussed on all the corners. Everyging the standard of the corners.

our the shooting sed on all the corners. Evthat in less than an hour the shooting of Ed Drey-fous was being discussed on all the corners. Ev-ery body wanted to learn how it happened and a dozen telegrams, asking for the particulars, were sent to Macon. By three o'clock it was currently reported that he had shot himse!! on the train near Forsyth while en route home, and that the wound was so fatal that he had to be re-moved at Forsyth. It was asserted that the shoot-ing was accidental and also that it was done with spickly linent. Another version of the affair was ing was accidental and also that it was done with spicifed intent. Another version of the affair was that he had become involved in a difficulty on the tain and had been shot by his adversary. But when these rumors were traced no reliable stating point for them could be found, and the friends of Ed Dreyfous in Atlanta had to content themselves with what they had and by waiting.

About one o'clock a second telegram came. It read:

"MACON, Ga., May 13, 1885.-To Mr. Will Ma-"MACON, Ga., May 13, 1885.—To Mr. Will Malone: Ed is dead.

This intelligence was sadder than the first and only augmented the vague rumors. On every hand nearly the killing was discussed. The inability of Ed Dreyfous's Atlanta friends to get the particulars gave the matter an air of mystery, and the mystery made it the more discussed. It was talked about in the city, at the ball ground and on the street cars. On every hand kind expressions were heard.

"Well, who'd a thought he'd a' done it," said one who believed in the suicidal theory.

"Poor Ed. He was so happy and jovial," said the murder theory man. murder theory man. 'Just think," said another, "He was alive, well never make another crowd laugh."

Late yesterday evening a party of his Atlanta riends decided to go down to Macon. They left at $10, and at $1.25 the following telegram was reserved:

eived: Macon, Ga., May 13, '85.—Mr. S. T. Grady, At-anta: Please inform my atlanta friends that I am till living. ED. DREYFOUS.
This coming telegram, as it did from Mr. Drey This coming telegram, as it did from Mr. Dreyfous, created a bigger sensation than the former two. People could not understand it. They could not tell whether Mr. Dreyfous had been made the subject of a joke by his friends or whether he was trying to play a joke himself. The telegram did not deny that he had been shot, and his friends claim yet that he was wounded, but not seriously, and wrote the telegram to let them know that he is alive.

TWENTY-SIXTH INTERNATIONAL

A Large Attendance of Delegates—The Election of Officers—Addresses of Welcome and Replics— Reports of the Work for the Past Year—

The twenty sixth convention of the Young Men's Christian association met in the First Baptist church in this city yesterday morning at 10 o'clock. There were about three hundred delegates and several hundred visitors present. Every train creased the number of delegates. It was thought They came from all parts of the union and from the various British American provinces.

The convention was called to order. In the absence of the president, the convention was called to order by R. R. McBirney, a member of the inter pational convention.

The convention rose and sang "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," The singing was remark-

Rev. Dr. McBride, of Lexington, Virginia, led in prayer, which was followed by another prayer by Rev. Dr. Marcus, of Missouri.

The singing was led by Mr. Willis, secretary of the Milwaukee association. H. W. Williams, state secretary of Minnesota, presided at the organ. The chairman announced that Mr. Robert Weidensall, secretary of the international committee, had just received a telegram stating that his brother was dying. His brother was not a Christian, the chairman said, and asked the convention to pray for him. A fervent prayer, to which there were many "amens," was offered by

Mr. Lewis, state secretary of Wisconsin. "Jesus Lover of My Soul" was then sung. Mr. Wheat, of Louisville, nominated Mr. Ward
J. Rogers, of Milwaukee, as temporary president.
Mr. Rogers was unanimously elected and took the chair. There was more excellent singing.
Mr. Rogers said he scarcely knew why he had been called to preside. He thanked the convention for the honor and trusted that his inexperience would be pardoned because of his great desire to see the convention accomplish good . work He hoped the members would carry home new Hehoped the members would carry home new spirit for the work, and when the harvest time came would bring in many sheaves.

Mr. George T. Coxhead, state secretary of Missouri, was elected temporary secretary.

The convention took a recess of ten minutes to give time for the various delegations to present names to compose a committee on permanent overshiration.

retired to proceed with the work in hand.
A temporary business committee consisting of B.O. Williams, of New Haven, Mr Sherraid, of New Orleans, and Mr. Lickline, of Petersburg, was appointed to prepare a programme for the day.
The chairman announced that he had received a letter from George Williams, of London, the founder of the association. [Applause] The letter was read as follows:

MR. WILLIAMS'S LETTER.

I ONDON, April 23, 1885.—To the Brethren Assembled at the Atlanta Convention of the Young Men's Christian Associations of the United States and British Provinces: The English associations send warm brotherly greetings, May, 1885: We pray that the God of all peace may be with you in your gatherings and that the work throughout your vast continent may feel the pulsations of a Saviors large shed abroad in your minist by the Holy Ghost given unto you.

lone shed abroad in your minist by the Holy Ghost given unto you.

We send you, brethren, beloved in the Lord, M. H. Hodder, aiready so well known to you, and E. I. Kennedy, who has lately consecrated himself to the work of Young Men's Christian associations and accepted the responsible position of secretary to the Central association. Exeter hall, London. For such brethren your welcome is assured. They bring you tidings of us- of growth and enlargement of the work on every hand. "Brethren tray for us." To the associations of America and Canada we say:

Canada we say:

"We wish you prosperity in the name of the Lord."

Signed on behalf the English associations at the request of the English national council.

George Williams, Chairman.

The reading of this letter from the founder of the Market and the reading of the second with great appliance.

The reading of this letter from the founder of the Y. M. C. A. was received with great applause. The chairman called on Mr. M. H. Hodden, of Condon, to make some remarks to the convention. Mr. Hodden, of London, to make some remarks to the convention. Mr. Hodden, of London, to make some remarks to the convention. Mr. Hodden was applauded and called to the platform. He made a few very appropriate remarks expressing his pleasure at being present, and his deep Interest in the work before the association. He said the Eughsh associations had taken many lessons from the American associations.

Mr. E. J. Kennedy, secretary of the London association, was called on and responded happily. He said he had come to this country to learn and if he come fifty years hence he would still come to learn He was happy to meet these new friends and to thank them for their kind reception. Count Edward Pueckler, the vice-president of the Berlin association was called upon and said he speke very little English but he knew enough to thank the convention from his heart for the kind courtesy extended to him. The count was warmly applauded.

Air Christian Phildens, secretary of the Berlin association, in response to callessaid that he hoped to receive benefits here which would enable him to push the work at home more effectively. A few years ago there were sixteen young men banded in this cause in Berlin, now there are over 1.800. [Applause] The work is prospering in other parts of Germany. Every large city in that country now has a mission. A great religious revival is coming in Germany and the seasociation in America for what it had done for his loved father land. [Applause.] The association is a merica for what it had done for his loved father land. [Applause.] The association in the convention had a few minutes of prayer and prayers and several hymns were sung.

Mr. Richard C. Morse, international secretary, prayed carnestly for the divine help to Brother weidensall in his affliction. The convention sang very softly "Nearer My God to Thee." After several other prayers and songs, the committee the permanent organization returned and submitted its report through its secretary, Mr. Morris, of Battmore. Hemmingway, of Chicago, and Mr. Gordon, of Erie, were appointed to escort Mr. Hardie te the chair. The convention arose and applauded Major Hardie as he took the chair. On assuming the chair he said that he could not let Mr. Rogers tellie without a word as to the pleasant memories of the meeting in the beautiful city he represented. He was thankful that while Mr. Colby could not be here haddy knew what to say to the convention. This is loo ordinary meeting. Wejare engaged in a grand work, and though we hear that often wedo not know the full meaning of those words. This association was united, almost before the caumons loar had died in this country, dissevered by sectional strile, and ever since it has been united in the war sainest sin. The convention was called to order for business by the president at a quarter past three o'clock.

A prayer was offered by Rev. George A. Hall, state secretary of New York. After singing "Rest for Me," the president introduced Chief Justice Jackson, who, he said, had been deiegated to welcome the delegates to Atlanta.

Judge Jackson was applauded as he rose. He state that he did not know why some more fit representative had not been chosen to speak words of welcome for Atlanta and Georgia. There is no need of any great formality about it. Mr. Frest-dent, in the name of Georgia I welcome you. Alabama is Georgia's oldest daughter and we claim her. And her sons are Georgia's grandsons. (Applause.) We welcome him not as a citizen of Georgia or of Alabama, but as a citizen of that better country to which we are all going. (Applause) When I see our friends here from other lands I am gratified to welcome them. I assure the gentleman who came all the way from Berlin that he is thrice welcome here. (Applause.) If an ambassador from the emperor of Germany were here Atlanta would be on tip toe to give him welcome. I welcome this brother as an ambassador from the greatest of kings. [Applause.] I heard names from Nova Scotia and from foreign cities; from the old mother London. God bless London. [Applause.] God bless the city where wesley preached. God bless the lady who came with these gentlemen! The woman who braved the waves of the ocean to come here to Georgia, and cur brethren from Canada. We feel a special interest in them. They stand just where we once were. [Laughter.] We were once colonies, and "a fellow feeling makes us wondrous kind." [Laughter.] Georgia, one of the old thirteen, bids you welcome. And you from Massachusetts, together, fighting side by side against the common enemy of us all—safan. Why of I speak of states and territories? We have a richer and a better inheritance bought by the blood of Christ for us, Judge Jackson concluded his remarks with a warm and touching assurance of welcome to all the delegates, and bade them godspeed in their work.

His remarks were very hippy, and were received with frequent demonstrations of approval.

One verse of "We Praise Thee, O, God, for the Son of Thy Love," was sung.

DR. BARNETT'S WELCOME.

In behalf of the pastors and churches of Atlanta

Rev. J. H. Barnett welcomed the convention. He said he hardly knew what he could add to the words spoken by Judge Jackson, for he was a renresentative both of the city and of the churches resentative both of the city and of the churches and could speak well for both. [Applause.]
But he could welcome the delegates in the name of the pastors of Atlanta. He knew what a pastor gained from the sympathy and support of such men as those before him. As our hearts grow warmer toward Christ we grow nearer to each other. During the past six weeks there has been a work of grace in Atlanta such as he had never seen before. In this very church there have been between sixty and one hundred secessions to the fold. The other churches have been similarly blessed. Our hearts are warm to welcome you. The doctor spoke of his own warm welcome when he came a stranger to Atlanta two years ago. He spoke of having seen a similar convention to this in Toronto six years ago and was deeply impressed by it. Dr. Barnett

He thanked God for the Young Men's Christian association, which was helping to save tness young men. He welcomed this great representative tody of young men who have given their hearts to this grand work. The doctor's carnest and well timed remarks were received with profound attention and evidently fell upon pleased ears.

Mr. Cephas Brainard, president of the international commstee, replied to the addresses of welcome. He said it was hard for one from the cold and frezen north [Laughter] to reply to such words of fervid eloquence. He was glad the convention was here. Our hearts respond to these beautiful words of welcome though our lips may not seem to do so in words worthy of the association it is welcomed by the highest judicial officer of the state. It is well that it should be so. It is well that the men who admi ister the laws on earth should be followers of the great judge above. It is a pleasing memory for ns to carry away that in this gate city of the south we were welcomed by the highest judicial officer of the state of Georgia. [Applause]

ia. [Applause] gia. [Applause]

He congratulated Dr. Barnett that he had taken in the measure of this great association of laymen whose aim it is to hold up the hands and cheer the hearts of the clergy. He expressed the hope that the meeting would result in such good that after receiving this cordial welcome the convention might be worthy to receive Atlanta's benediction for its good work in the city. [Applause.]

After singing Rev J. William Jones, of Richmond, led in prayer. After singing Mr. Cephas Brainerd, chairman of the international con tee, submitted his annual report, which was a VERY INTERESTING PAPER as indicating the growth and prosperity of the as sociation. The following extracts from the report which is very lengthy, will be of interest: Immediately after the acceptance by the Milwankee convention of the charter of the Intermational committee, the trustees named in it met for organization. The committee proceeded under the law, and is now a lawful corporation. The rules adopted by the trustees provide for one meeting each year, and for such special meetings as may be required. The annual meeting was held shortly prior to the meeting of this convention.

The eleven secretaries of the committee are, Robert Weidensall. Richard C. Morse, Thomas K. Cree, Erskin Uhl, Edwin D. Ingersoll, L. D. Wishard, E. W. Watkins, Henry E. Brown, J. T. Bowne, Cleus Olandt, Jr., and C. K. Ober.

The following is a summary of the statistical reports thus far received by the committee:

The committee feels that it is due to Mr. W. W. Vanarsdale, the éditor and publisher of the Watchman, that public acknowledgment be made by it, of its appreciation of the valuable services that his paper has performed in the career of the sasociations. It has faithfully advocated their cardinal principles and the best methods in the prosecution of their work.

The committee has no recommendations to make modifying the policy or work carried on un der the authority of the conventions in its general features. Changes as to mere details it feels can readily be made as the work advances. But its prosecution upon a scale corresponding to the opportunities which are now presented, demands the active co-operation of all true association men, by purse, by prayer, by personal effort, consecrated by an undying love for Him who bought us with his own blood.

NIGHT SESSION. The convention reassembled at 7:45 p. m. The opening prayer was offered by Rev. Dr. Eddy. Then followed a Bible reading conducted by J. H. Elliott, of Minneapolis. Subject: "Things necessary in doing Christian work as found in God's work." The reading was a selection of various passages of scripture as indicating what are the things need ful to success in Christian work. Mr. Elliott made this portion of the service very interesting

Ellicit made this portion of the service very interesting.

After singing, Rev. Dr. Munhall led in prayer.
The male chorus then sang a beautiful hymu.
Dr. Hawthorne, pastor of the First Baptist church, said it was a gratifying fact that this is more than a national convention. It is international. We have all denominations and many countries represented here, but we are all agreed in the grand faith in the cardinal truths of our

Among the representative men gathered here is one whom we shall hear with peculiar pleasure tonight. Dr. Hawthorn then introduced the Right Reverend M. B. Baldwin, the bishop of Huron Canada. BISHOP BALDWIN'S ADDRESS.

The bishop was applauded as he came forward. He spoke on the question, "Is the Bible addy He to the young men of to-day, and it so, why?" He

He spoke on the question, "Is the Bible adapted to the young men of to-day, and if so, why?" He said this question was like asking, is the sun adapted to the earth? Is the shepherd adapted to the earth? Is the shepherd adapted to the taught? There is no other book which will stand at last. God forbid that we should undervalue the works of men; but ye know that in the end this book will be the out you which will stand faultless. Therefore, read it. By bible reading we do not mean such reading as the Ecribes and Pharisees gave it. They seemed to know the Bible perfectly, and they tried to use their shrewd technical knowledge to confound the Sou of each himself. They did not know the Bible in its spirit, and these very men when either Christ or a thief could have been released at their bidding cried "Give us Barabbas!" The Bible is the great palace of God and the spirit of God alone can take you through it and light it up. It alone can reveal to you the wondrous Being who is the totality of that book, some people do not love the Bible because they fear it. They are awed by its terrors to the evil. They do not look at its sweet forgiveness and its gentle love which also pervade it. There is no pas, sage of this book that is not replete with life. There is a little flower which blooms on the summit of the Alps, and the eternal ice and snow, the emblem of death, and tells there the tale of life. People ask why are the long records of names in the Chronicles. Wait a while. There was at time when people saw smoke coming out of the kettle and did not know their possible uses. How are you to study this book? The Bible seems to be a very composite work. It has many books, but if you will study them you will find that there are but three histories in the Bible. They are the istory of Israel. The history of Christ. The history of secular government. If you will study these histories you will find that they revolve atou. Christ. Israel is said to stumble upon this stone. Israel shall yet be gathered. When we see secular powe prescious truins and assimilate them to our spiritual life. Many people admire the beauty of spiritual life. Many people admire the beauty of the Biple without appropriating it.

We grow by obedience to the word of God. First, we know Corist, and then all the other doctrines come in. You have to deal with the infidelity of the day. Don't be discouraged if you cannot tneet the astute reasoners who attack Coristianity. The most powerful argument that can be brought sgainst infidelity is Christ himself. If you take a man out at noon end show him the sun and he tells you he cannot see it you need not take that man out at midnight to show him Sirius and Capelia. Just as you abide in Christ and He in you the truth will become clearer. How often have we seen some poor unlettered creature with a more powerful knowl-

abide in Christ and He in you the truth will become clearer. How often have we seen some poor unlettered creature with a more powerful knowledge of the word of God than people who know Greek and Latin. When you rise in the morning over the deor of your soul and let Christ in and the duties that seemed hard will melt before you. The third way we grow, is by diffusion. The church is like the fire fly. On the wing she glows. When she rests she grows dim. God'sgrace is the river of the water of life. So many of us would make it a morass. A man must remember as Murray has said that Jesus Christ gave himself for us cally that we may give him unto others. The latt Francis Hadergale said that it was her chief joy to see Christ in others and the contest that you have with Satan, remember that this word will give you the victory. I commend it to your loving study, and I beg you to show by your walk and life what it can do for men, and then you, too, shall be to the praise and glory of the Eavior.

Bishop Faldwin delivered his beautiful address, of which the main ideas are given above, in a very earnest and impressive manner which enlisted the closest attention. It made a deep impression on the convention and the large congregation of spectators. After singing Mr. Orr, of Pittsburg, led in prayer. The president said it had been a privilege to hear the word of God held up so to win our faith and to come into our lives to wing as the programme for Thursday, May 14ta; $10 to 11:30 a. m.—Paper on state work by Mr. Flatt, chairms not fine New York state committee.

CONVENTION NOTES.

Mr. Kennedy, of London, is the tallest man in the convention. He is six feet four.

The meeting to night will be interesting. It will relate to the ratiroad work of the association. This department has been peculiarly successful and useful. The Railroad Y. M. C. A. is a great institution.

Judge Jackson's address was pocu-liarly happy. Dr. Barnett spoke with carnest eloquetics of the warm hearted wel-come which the pastors of Atlanta hold out to come which the pastors of Atlanta holo out to the convention.

The convention singing is remark bly fine and the maie chorus of thi ty well trained voices makes superb music. A cordial invitationis ex-tended to all the people of Atlanta to attend the services. They will be found very interesting. Bishop Baldwin's address last night was a mode of strength and beauty, as well as of deep, spirit-nal thought.

It was full of brilliant plays, and ran closer even to the end. In the last half of the ninth inning he visitors went to bat two runs behind. The first two batters hit safely, and occupied first and second. The third man struck a tremendous fly that started to a vacant field. The two runners started home, and no spectator thought it possible to prevent their getting in and beating the game. But like a flash Jevne slipped under the fly, took it on a dead run, outing the batter. He then sent t like a rifle shot to Bittman, thus outing the runner, who, thinking it safe, had started

The Birming ams are universally considered the strongest team that has yet played here, and we cannot understand how they stand so near the foot of the league. They held the Atlantas to their very best work every minute yesterday, and the game being very doubtful from the first ball to the last.

In the game to day Bauer and McVey will be Atlanta's battery, while the visitors will put up McCauley and Crossley. Another brilliant game may be looked for. Following is the gossip of the Parsons hit to Cleveland and went out at first only lour balls were pitched and the half faming played in less than one minute.

In the seventh the crowd went wild over the magnificent playing of the visitors. Sullivan hit a bot one to second almost out of reach of Corridon. The latter made a beautiful pick up, threw low to first, making Phinney reach several feet for the ball which he picked up on the ground, retiring Sullivan. Bittman then sent a sky ball to left which Mercitt took on the run with his back to the ball. Cabill sent a fly to left and outed the side. Crossley, for the visitors, reached first on beding hit, and took on the run with his back to the ball. Cabill sent a fly to left and outed the side. Crossley, for the visitors, reached first on being hit, and 'then got out trying to steal second. Smith had seven balls and took first, stole second. Cark threw wild to Bittman and Smith darted to third. Jevne got the sphere and made a beautiful throw to Cleveland, outing the runner at third. Phluney blanked the side by hitting to Cleveland who threw him out at first.

In the eighth, Goldsby hit to Corridon and was out at first. McVey flew out to left. Clark caught onto Parson's up shoot and sent a hot one to left for a single and stole second and third. Cleveland flew out to Parsons—a blank for Atlanta. Merritt, for the visitors, sawed. Murphy hit to short and wesn tout at first. Roche struck three times and was outed at first by Clark.

In the ninth, Jevne flew out on a pop up to Parsons. Henke hit to Parsons and went out at first. Sullivan hit a long drive to right for a double and reached third on a wiid throw. Bittman struck out. For the visitors, Barber re-ched first on a tip to third. Corridon hit safe to left for a single. Barber going to second. The interest grew intanse at this juncture. There were two men on bases and a good hit would have brought in at least one run; a two-bagger would have tied the sore. Nobody was art his juncture. There were two men of bases and a good hit would have brought in at least one run; a two-bagger would have tied the score. Nobody was out, it was the last half of the ninth inning. Parsons took up the willow and sent the ball away out to right of center. The lick sounded like the crack of a rife. Barber and Corridyu shot like deers for third and second. There was a moment's suspense; it looked impossible for Jevne to get anywhere near the ball. He made a long run to his right and caught the ball. Then cheers went up. An instant later he darted the ball to Bittman at second, outing Barber; Bittman threw to Henke putting Corridon out, thus making the only tripple play of the season, and without doubt prettiest one that ever will be made. I was shardly four seconds from the lime Parsons hit until three men were out. The stands rose up a sone man and shouted themselves hoarse, according Jevne a perfect ovation. It was great work, such as is seldom seen in a life-time.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 13 .- [Special.]-The first game between the Chattanoogas and the Columbus was played here to-day. A tremendous crowd was in attendance. Columbus took the crowd was in attendance. Columbus took the field, with Landis in the box. Landis was in capital trim, and up to the ninth inning the Chattanoogas had only scored two, only one of which was carned. The Chattanoogas put Ramsey in the box. Columbus made one earned run off of him. The game was without special feature until the ninth inning, the score standing then, Columbus 3, and Chattanoogas 2. Great excitement over this inning. Columbus was retired with a goose egg. Landis became vexed at Bentel's long wating for a ball to suit him, and tossed him an easy one, which Bentel sent over the fence, making a home run, bringing in Green. The Chattanoogas we re then retired

Memphis Defeats Augusta MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 13 .- [Special.]-The Au gusta club crossed bats with the home boys at the Cycle park to day before a large audience. The pony battery was in good order and the Augustas had to lose the game. The batting and fielding was about even except that the visitors' errors were made at the wrong time, and the hits of the home team were made to advantage. To-mor row's game will be much more closely contested as the visitors will have had a good rest from traveling and be in better condition. The following is the official score:

plause since we left home." Three of the visitors had to lift their caps to the applauding stands yesterday.

Those who miss to-day's game will miss seeing one of the best clubs that has yet visited Atlanta. Sullivan's arm was not in the best of shape yesterday, still the visitors found his curves difficult to solve. This makes the ninth championship game "Sully" has won without losing one. There seems to have been a misunderstanding on the part of Manager Harrison in claiming that Mappis, Atlanta's new catcher, belonged, to Birmingham. Manager Schmelz's telegram to Mappis is dated May 7th, just one day too late. Mappis arrived yesterday.

Beginning with to-day the drivers of all carriages will be charged admission to the grounds. In all the other league cities the drivers are charged and in some cities an extra charge is made for the vehicle besides.

The white headed center fielder, the auburnhaired second baseman and the young blonde giant on first got in their work yesterday for the first triple play ever made in Atlanta.

Cahill was kept busy at short yesterday. John Patrick did himself proud.

McVey says he hit that first ball on the handle of his bat yesterday. Where would it have gone if he had hit it where it says "A. J., Reach?" Mac and his little stick.

Exchange: NEW YORK, May 13.—The stock market has been irregular and moderately active, and at times severish to day, with Lackawanna the leading feature. The street was well supplied with numers regarding the western railroad troubles. The different stocks that make up the active list wers to creatic that a description of the market hardly be given without taking up Lackawanns, which, after many fluctuations, closed lower. New York Central was the weakest active stock, but developed strength toward the close and ended only 1/2 per cent lower. Grangers and Gould stocks yielded a fraction in the forenoon but were steady until late in the afternoon and then rallied so that the closing prices show very small changes. Lake Shore closed 1/8 per cent higher. Sales 251,000 shares.

THE CHICAGO MARKET. Features of the Speculative Movements in Grain and Produce.

By telegraph to The Constitution. CHICAGO, May 13-The wheat market was very flat in early trading, prices dropping off 1/2% from the closing figurees of last night. There had been heavy short selling during the two preceding days, and the bears seemed to be in complete possession of the field, due in the main to the advent of warmer weather; then came in some gloomy crop reports, reported presence of grasshoppers in Texas and a good home and export inquiry for spring wheat, all of which caused an instant revival in the temper of the market, prices advancing sharply 1%c from the bottom, with the bears show-ing a frantic desire to cover their short sales. Trading to the close in the afternoon was active and the feeling was quite firm at the finish at nearly the best figures of the day. Receipts continue fair and shipments free.

There was only a moderate speculative business in corn, but the market ruled steady, responding to the advance in wheat and closed 1/2 higher than yesterday. Receipts are only moderate. There was a good shipping demand for oats, and the market ruled steady and somewhat firm. In provisions trade was very light with the feel-

GINGHAMS

Our former price for same quality of Gingham has been 8c. We are going to slaughter these goods at 5c per yard. This is a ba.gain for which you will never cease praising us. We also opened at the same time one case of beautiful figured Satteens which has never been sold by any other house in Atlanta for less than 35c per per yard, and our former price for same quality of goods has been 25c. This case of Sat-teens will be sold by us at 55c per yard. Your money is your friend, and the house which places these kind of bargains constantly before you serves your interest best.

OMPTROLLER GENERAL'S OFFICE, ATLANta, Ga., July 9th, 1883.—Dr. P. R. Holt, Edfaula, Ala., Dear Sir: I am pleased to report that I have been entirely cured of indigestion by the use of your Dyspeptic Elixir. I was induced by a friend to try it, after having tried almost every remedy known for my disease, without the slightest effect. I took enly three small bottles of your medicine before I was entirely well. I sufered several years, and although it has been three years since I used your preparation, I have had no return of it. Yours truly, W. A. Wright, Comptroller General State of Georgia. For sale, retail, by Maghus & Hightower, Atlanta, Ga.

Several months ago McKinney engaged in a personal difficulty with a negro and was arrested. The next morning he was arraigned in police court charged with disorderly conduct, and was fined five dollars and cost. McKinney did not have the money to pay the fine, but was released upon his promise to liquidate the bill. The matter passed on for a good while and McKinney did not settle.

A few days ago McKinney and Wesley James, the hackman, had a law suit, in which McKinney defeated James. James knew of the unpaid fine, and yesterday morning caused McKinney to be re-arrested. He was still unable to pay, and was marched off to the rock pile, where he will crack five dollars and seventy-five cents worth of rocks.

WHAT A WIDOW WANTS.

WHAT A WIDOW WANTS.

She Snes for Possession of Property Deeded by Her Divorced Husband.

An interesting case was tried before Judge Marshall J. Clarke yesterday. The case sounds Mrs. Mary A. Davis against John F. Morris and J. A. DeFoor, guardians of the two minor children of L. H. Davis, deceased. Larkin Davis was one of the oldest citizens of Atlanta and his name is familiar to almost every ear in the city. He was married four times. After the death of his second wife he was married to a Mrs. Lilly, a widow whose husband had been a soldier stationed at McPherson barracks. While the pair were living together, Davis deeded to his wife a third interest in two lots on Foreyth street, a part of the old Davis hall property. After a period of wedded life Mr. and Mrs. Davis disagreed and a suit for divorce was filed. As soon as Davis secured his diverce he immediately married a fourth wife, and later he died and lott a widow. There was then in existence the real widow, the two children, the divorced widow and the two lots of land. The guardians of the children secured possession of the property and now hold it. They claim that they bought the property in at a marshal's sale. The course in or Mrs. Lilly raised the point that the property was advertised in the Sunday's Constitution, and the sale was therefore illegal. The court sustained this position and the case went to trial. The representatives of the children claimed that Mr. Davis was not competent to make a deed when the property was deeded. His second wife was Miss Morris, and the two children, with a stipulation fhat it was to revert to him should he into his possession a second time. Mrs. Lilly sues for a partition of the land. She says that the consideration that two children, with a stipulation fhat it was to revert to him should he into his possession a second time. Mrs. Lilly sue for a partition of the land. Templeton was sentenced to ten years and McNeely was sentenced to five years and McNeely was sentenced to five years. They were granted a new trial and yesterday the case came up in the superior court before Judge Hammond. Templeton was put upon trial first. After an investigation of his case the jury returned a verdict of not guilty. Solicitor-General Hill thereupon consented that a verdict of acquittal should be given McNeely, which was accordingly done. The two men, who had lain in jail for many months and were much emaciated and done. The two men, who had lain in jail for many months and were much emaciated and broken in health, were so overcome on receiving an acquittal that they broke down and wept. They went away and addressed a note to Judge Hammond and the members of the bar, giving very profound thanks for the favors that had been extended them. The men said they intended to remain in Atlanta and show that they could be good citizens. They asked the said of the bar in finding some employment at living prices.

He is hunting for two white men who made a murderous assault upon Woodson Hill, a negre man, late Tuesday night.

The assault upon Hill was made at the home of a white woman named Hyde. The woman lives on the old Lawshe place, near Jamestown. She is the mother of two daughters who once manipulated razors in the female barber shop on Hunter street. These girls do not bear the best character and their visitors are many. Among those who had visitors are many. Among those who had been in the habit of calling was a young man Deever. Deever's visits were a source of dis-plessure to several other visitors and on Monday he was informed that if he ever called again he would be killed. Late that night Deever pressed Woodson Hill into service and called at the woman's house. When he reached the place he instructed Hill to remain in the yard while he went in. Some after Deever entered the house, two white men, who had probably been secreted in the yard sprang upon Hill and began knifing him. The attack was a surprise to Hill, and he began yelling loudly for help. Deever heard Hill's calls, and ran to his rescue. Together they succeeded in driving the assailants away. After the men disappeared Hill secertained that he held but out severely in the back in three he had but cut severely in the back in three places. His wounds were examined and dressed by a physician. One wound was found to be quite serious. The matter was reported to Captain Russell early yesterday morning. He was not long in ascertaining the names of the men who assaulted Hill and at once swore out warrants charging them with assault with in-tent to murder. The men, however, have succeed-ed in evading the police, and Captain Rus-sell has been endeavoring to keep the affair

Monday, May 18, 4 p.m. G.

Monday, May 18th, 1885, 4 O'CLOCK P. M.

I WILL SEIL ON THE PREMISES AT THE hour named above, one of the most eligible and desirable lots in the city, 100x240. The house is a one story brick, and for convenience and solid comfort cannot be excelled. It has two bath rooms, one large cedar closet, laundry, two servant reoms, coal and wood house and several closets so arranged as to secure comfort and convenience. The location commands a number of beautiful views and has unsurpassed surroundings. Go and look at the it speaks for itself. Remember that this is not a house that you will have to tear down to get what you want. Another story and a bay window and the substitution of several sty lish doors and windows and you will have a new house. It will be sold strictly on its merits. Go out and examine it thoroughly before the sale. Such a place is rarely on the market, and gets there now because the owner wants to go to the country.

Terms, one-third cash, one-third in six months, one-third in twelve months with 8 per cent, or all cash at option of purchaser.

Harold Akin Baxter Was born near Cartersville, Ga., July 22, 1873, and died in Atlanta, Ga., April 29, 1885. He was the only child of our late fellow-townsman, Mr. T. W. Baxter. by his first wife, nee Miss Eliza Akin, daughter of the late Colonel Warren Akin. The disease which carried him away was a malignust type of smallet fever. The disease which carried him away was a maliguant type of sourlet fever.

Thus died a child of unusual promise. Intelligent far beyond the average, courageous, bright, full of life and sprightliness, with a certain nobility of character which shone from beaming eyes beneath a brow of fine expanse, it would seem in this case indeed that "death loves a shining mark." In his books he was apt and quick, and in the few years of his life had acquired a considerable degree of information. Out of his books, the activity of his mind amounted almost to intellectual restlessness. Of keen discernment, clear judgment and quick decision, he gave promise of an intelligence which, when mature, would have made him a marked man in any community.

His manners were unusual for one of his years.

Those of our readers who remember the sweet gentleness of his sainted mother, and how beautifully were blended in her a mind of unusual strength with a heart rich in all that makes woman lovely, were not surprised to see in her son so gifted a boy.

In almost inspired verse, the poet sang:

"Unveil thy bosom, faithful tomb!"

Ah, faithful tomb! To thee we commit our flowers. Keep this opening bud, as thou didst the rose of Sharon, until in immortal beauty it blooms in that land where flowers never fade!

A Remarkable Fact in Court Records.

Patriotic peoply, advocating public good, often quote court stistics to show promoting sources of crin committed. Telling shafts are frequently of at assailable points in the distilled beverage trade, by tracing infractions of law and morality directly to the debasing effect of vicious goods unserupulously sold by avaricious dealers. The strictest investigation among all court records discloses the remarkable fact that not a single breach of law or morals has ever been tangibly inspired or abetted by the many millions of bottles of Dufly's Pure Malt Whisky that have been sold and consumed. The reason is obvious. First, it is absolutely free from all residuum of deadly poisons found in ordinary liquors, which excite frenzy, create morbid cravings and beget deprayed appetites. Second, it is the most scientific concentration of the nutritious and tonic qualities of the finest barley, and quitess beneficial for universal use as the best bread that ever came from honest baker's over. All reliable druggists and grocers will furnish it at all part large, bottle. A Remarkable Fact in Court Records. oven. All reliable druggists and grocers will furnish it at $1 per large bottle.
